

Re-assessments:

Please read the original SBG handout for a complete explanation.

The overall deadline is 2 weeks from the return of the test.

Homework must be checked at least the day prior to the reassessment, not immediately before.

Name / Today's Date: _____

The standard(s) to be re-assessed: _____

Why you didn't do well the first time around.

Be honest. It wasn't "little mistakes" or you'd have a 4.5

If you didn't do homework or procrastinated too much, own up to it.

What you have done to re-learn the material since the assessment

Two possible dates for the re-assessment, after school.

- You must demonstrate that
 - you have completed all practice problems (if the practice wasn't done, is it any surprise there was difficulty?)
 - you have gotten extra help on the material (from a student or teacher)
 - you have completed extra questions, if any were given.
- Time limit – two weeks after the original assessment.
(*time period may be changed depending on how the system is working, and the school calendar-end of MP).
- End-of-marking period time is very stressful and limited, both for students and teachers. Do not put everything off until then, when it can't be scheduled.
- The reassessment may consist of a written and/or verbal portion, in which the teacher questions for further understanding.
- The level of difficulty of the re-assessment will reflect the highest level of difficulty that has been studied so far.
- No more than two standards may be re-assessed at a time.
- The re-assessment may not be done right after an extra-help session. The re-assessment is meant to show what you know, not what you can repeat back immediately after a help session!
